KIDNAPED!

Wife Held for $15,000 Ransom

YUBA CITY, Calif., Sept. 2 (AP)—Two masked, roughly dressed young men kidnaped Mrs. W. R. Meeks, 55-year-old wife of a wealthy Sutter County rancher, from her home early today for $15,000 ransom, Sheriff Bert Ullrey reported.

Meeks said the kidnapers, one threatening him with a pistol, forced their way into his home shortly before midnight, bound both him and his wife and then ransacked the house.

They fled with Mrs. Meeks, in her husband's automobile, leaving the 58-year-old rancher bound hand and foot on the living room floor.

G-MEN AID HUNT

As they were leaving the pair stood over Meeks and demanded the ransom. He said they told him:

"We'll contact you in a couple of days for $15 fifteen thousand."

Girl's Grave Bares Crime

LOWELL, Sept. 2—Dramatically exhumed at dawn from a grave in St. Joseph's cemetery, the body of pretty, dark-haired Rose Dugas lay today in an autopsy laboratory here.

Saying they were convinced by examination of the body that the girl had died a victim of illegal surgery, county investigators went immediately to Fort Devens to question a soldier, her former sweetheart.

He attempted suicide Monday as he knelt at her bier.

At that time, the girl's death was believed to have been due to natural causes, although she had

Tap Davis Wire On Hines Talk

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—When J. Richard (Dixie) Davis was suddenly excused from the stand at the Hines conspiracy trial today, Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey began laying the foundation for sensational wire-tapping testimony.

This testimony deals with an alleged conversation between Davis and Tammany Leader James J. ("Jimmy") Hines concerning $500.

Dewey witnesses have charged that Hines received payments of $500 a week and up for acting as political "fixer" for the "Dutch" Schultz mob in the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket.

With Dixie

Davis, one-time "kid mouthpiece" for the Schultz syndicate, was recalled to the stand when court opened. Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker surprised the spectators by announcing "no further cross-examination."

CONFESSED PERJURER

Although Stryker cross-examined Davis for almost six hours yesterday, he avoided interrogating the ex-mobster about his (Davis') charges that he personally had paid thousands of dollars to Hines in behalf of the mob.

The biggest point Stryker brought out against the witness was forcing Davis to admit he had been a perjurer a number of times.

"No further questions," said Dewey after Stryker's announcement.

Then Dewey called Joseph d'Ablemont of Teaneck, N. J., telephone company employe, who produced a record showing he had installed a telephone at Davis' apartment which was in use from May, 1933, to October, 1934.

William J. Mellin, special agent of the internal revenue bureau, testified that as a former detective he had tapped telephones. Later he became an investigator.

Hope Dare's Story Dewey's Next Coup

By EDWIN C. HILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—Cherchez la femme!

Attorney Lloyd Stryker has found the woman. She is in the Jimmy Hines case with both trimly shod feet, svelte figure, red hair and all—Hope Dare, Dixie Davis' inamorata.

The mere mention of her name sent an electric current racing through the courtroom, caused rows of spectators to stiffen in their seats.

All that is a prelude for Hope's personal appearance in this drama of politics and the policy racket. District Attorney Thomas Dewey will not confide when he intends to summon Miss Dare to the stand, but doesn't deny that his witness will supply, as advertised, a pulchritudinous treat.

She will be brought to testify, unless plans are changed, that Dixie Davis paid her, as has been testified, eight or ten visits.

She may be asked to testify that two policemen were on hand whenever she and Dixie did their billing and cooing.

That was what the indignant Davis implied when Defense Attorney Stryker brought out the nature of Dixie's tender regard for Miss Dare—that he was never unchaperoned on his visits from jail to Miss Dare's home.

Of course, when Hope trips to the witness box, manicured, marcelled and massaged, she may be asked to testify as to what Dixie may have told her regarding his contacts with Jimmy Hines, Dutch Schultz and the policy racket.

More importantly, she is quite apt to be asked if she accompanied Dutch Schultz, Jimmy Hines and Ethel Morton to Brothwell's riding academy in Fairfield, Conn., on a Sunday afternoon in August, 1935. She may be asked if she had accompanied Schultz or Davis on other excursions with Hines or had been anywhere with the defendant.

So the red-haired girl is in the case, and lively times will be had by all when she turns up in our courthouse.

3 'BAKE' IN CELL DEATH TEST

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 (AP)—Three perspiring experimenters watched scientific instruments record a higher and higher temperature today in a re-enactment of conditions that baked to death four convicts in a stuffy punishment cell-block at the Philadelphia county prison.

Five men, including two state health officials, volunteered to enter the prison "Klondike" last night and remain while sizzling steam, coursing through a battery of radiators in the corridor, slowly heated the building to uncomfortably high temperatures.

TEST ATMOSPHERE

Into the cells where four men died and 21 others were sickened by the heat, the experimenters took 15 glass jars containing thermometers, barometers and other instruments for determining atmospheric conditions.

Howard Cunningham, a county detective, who took food to the remaining three this morning, said the mercury recorded 97 and was going up.

That was still far below the 150-degree temperature which Coroner Charles Hersh estimated must have prevailed when the four died.

While in their voluntary "imprisonment," the experimenters kept records of their blood pressure and noted other physical reactions.

Jury Asked to Hold 8 in 'Roast Deaths'

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 (AP)—A "blue ribbon" coroner's jury was asked today to hold for grand jury action on charges of criminal negligence two top-ranking officials and at least six guards of the Philadelphia County prison where four convicts baked to death in a punishment "klondike."

Deputy Coroner Vincent Moranz, charging the jury of six business men and clubwomen at the conclusion of a two and a half day inquest, specifically asked that the following be held:

Superintendent William B. Mills, Deputy Warden Frank Craven, Guard Captain James McGuire, Guard Sergeant James Hart, and Guards Francis Smith, Alfred Brough, Robert Morrow and William J. Borbridge.

Moranz also instructed the jury to consider carefully the testimony of three other guards and to hold them for grand jury action if it considered them involved in the deaths.

These were Joseph Lippo, Edward Corkery and Samuel James.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—Lured into a stateroom aboard the transatlantic liner Normandie, a 19-year-old Lowell, Mass., beauty fought off a dining room steward who first made amorous advances, then treated her roughly and tried to gag her, it was revealed today.

She was in a party inspecting theh big ship as it lay at a North River pier. A dining room steward, Rene Boiven, 27, was acting as her guide.

By a pretext, she said, Boiven lured her into a stateroom, shut the door, and when she rebuffed him and tried to escape he threw her on a bed and attempted to gag her.

She fought and her screams brought several other members of the crew to the stateroom and her rescue.

Boiven was arrested and on arraignment held in $2500 bail for special sessions.

Miss Jablonski, is on a vacation visit here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morris.

Lindy Stunts To Avoid Crowd

PRAHA, Sept. 2 (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh entertained Praha with some unexpected airplane stunts today when he landed here from Olmuetz, where foggy weather had held him overnight.

As he was taxiing after landing here with Mrs. Lindbergh, he twice raced his plane across the field with four automobiles bearing Czechoslovak and American officials in pursuit.

Without lifting his plane, Lindbergh managed to evade about 500 Czechoslovaks who broke through a small police guard and chased the plane bearing bouquets and presents. One man was carrying a large, intricate wood carving.

Lindbergh saw the crowd coming toward him as he landed. He swerved around and went to one corner of the field. The automobiles were close behind.

Not fast enough to escape them, the colonel taxied to the other end of the field.

There, still wearing his flying helmet, he jumped into the automobile of Major Lowell Riley, military attache of the United States legation here. One woman managed to give Mrs. Lindbergh a bouquet of red carnations.

'Harem Girl' Love Potion Clue Traced

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2 (AP)—Search for a pretty Neoso, Mo., girl who eloped with a wealthy Arabian youth continued in Eastern cities today after federal authorities here declared a "powerful love potion" had figured in the runaway marriage.

Assistant U. S. Attohney Henry G. Morris said a small bottle of the liquid, which had "a strong and exotic fragrance," was left by the girl, Doris Hisaw, 17, when she eloped recently to Bentonville, Ark., with Nijib Toonie, 27-year-old Arab.

He stated the vial was found among the girl's belongings by her mother, Mrs. Lorene Hisaw.

Otis Hisaw, fearing his daughter would be placed in an Arabian harem, obtained the aid of federal authorities in seeking to prevent the newlyweds from sailing for Toonie's homeland of Iraq.

Why Is a Boston JiTtErBuG?

HOLD EVERYTHING—Those jitterbugs are loose again, with their swing rhythm filling the air. "Jittering" here are Johnny Russell and Betty Hutton, of Vincent Lopez' band, in a "modified" version of the popular pastime.

By ANN MARSTERS

Introducing the country's "Number 1 Jitterbug" — Miss Betty Hutton.

What is it about her that makes the customers cease their dancing and crowd toward the band when she sings with her throaty swing-voice? What is it that makes her fling herself into that incidental, inspirational dancing about with her restless, swing-mad toes?

It's because she's a jitterbug, and those who love her are jitterbugs, too.

Now a jitterbug can't resist another jitterbug. They are comrades under the skin. They are all possessed by the same—shall we call it "madness?"

They've got swing in their blood and in their bones. It's a kind of epidemic that has not yet reached its boundary lines.

SWARM ON INCREASE

Until a while ago, Boston seemed to have control over the swing situation. It could take it—or leave it alone. But the army of jitterbugs have been boring from within, so to speak, gaining in numbers, bug by bug.

And now Boston—even Boston—is in the firm grip of this thing called swing, and only Time itself can set us free.

Young Betty Hutton, singing with Vincent Lopez band at the Ritz Roof, has lured many new members into the jitterbugs' army. For she is all that any jitterbug could hope to be.

She is very pretty and very blonde—but that's merely incidental. She is the personification of swing. Once the music begins to play, she is never still.

Her feet and her hands and her head; her whole body becomes a part of the music interpreting it with all the motions of a true jitterbug.

IT WASN'T TRUE

She says:

"They told me that I'd find Boston not quite so crazy about swing as most of the other cities. But that isn't true. I've watched them on the Ritz Roof, and Boston jitterbugs are just as enthusiastic as any I've ever seen."

Well, just what IS a jitterbug, Betty, and how do you get to be one? And why?

"You become a jitterbug," she said, "when you feel all the swing of the music; when it seems to tingle all through you—and you can't help but express it in some way; either by stamping your feet or jiggling your head or clapping your hands."

She has been with Lopez since last January—and she was such an instantaneous hit, that she already has a nice movie contract with Twentieth Century-Fox. In October, she will leave for Hollywood, and her sister, Marion, will take her place with the band.

Carroll Quizzed In Penney Killing

AUBURN, Me., Sept. 2—Former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, convicted slayer of Dr. James G. Littlefield of South Paris, has finally been questioned by county authorities concerning the May 18 murder of John W. Penney, gasoline station proprietor.

This was revealed today by Sheriff Rex V. Bridges as he and other Androscoggin officials made final preparations to exhume the body of Penney for an autopsy by Dr. Timothy Leary, Boston pathologist.

"Carroll gave a satisfactory account of his movements up till two o'clock of the afternoon on which Penney was slain," Sheriff Bridges asserted, "but was unable to tell us what he did the rest of the day.

"We questioned Carroll in his cell at Thomaston state prison."

Sheriff Bridges said, and we were not satisfied with his answers to our interrogations.

Barbara Carroll

"The questioning will be resumed just as soon as the report of the autopsy has been forwarded to county prosecutor Ralph V. Ingalls."

With the sensationally reopened investigation into the Penney mystery-slaying, Barbara Carroll, the former deputy sheriff's pretty 17-year-old daughter, today found herself again in the spotlight—this time named as a possible motive in still another murder.

The state gained a conviction against her father on the allegation that Dr. Littlefield was slain because he had threatened to report to the authorities that Carroll had been guilty of misconduct with her.

This same motive is now projected into the Penney murder probe. Even before Carroll was placed on trial in South Paris, there had been persistent reports that Penney also "knew something" about these alleged relations with Barbara.

2 Priests Catch Poor-Box Thief

A poor-box thief, believed by police to have been systematically looting churches of South Boston, Dorchester and Brighton, was captured by two priests today in SS. Peter and Paul's Church, South Boston.

The priests, Rev. Francis Doyle of South Boston and Father Martin of Mirimar, N. Y., were in conference with Rev. Robert E. Lee, the pastor, in the church rectory.

A burglar alarm, attached to the poor boxes in the church, began sounding.

While Father Lee telephoned police, Father Martin and Father Doyle rushed into the church and grappled with the thief.

He had forced a poor box behind the altar rail, ripping off two feet of the railing, itself.

CHURCH LISTS FOUND

On his person, police said they found several dollars in small change and two lists of Boston churches.

One list was clipped from a telephone book, another was written in pencil.

Both lists bore numerous check marks and pencilled stars, indicating, police said, that the churches so marked had been robbed or were soon to be robbed.

The thief was held for questioning and was to be placed in a lineup before definite charges were filed against him.

Death Misses Trapeze Girl, So Show Goes On

"The show must go on, you know."

Thus did pretty Jean Clark, 23-year-old Boston trapeze artist, laugh off an escape from death which had spectators gasping, and then pluckily go on with her aerial act despite a torn and aching ankle.

The girl missed death by inches at Revere Beach when she slipped from her trapeze, 60 feet above the ground, and plunged toward a horrified crowd.

Luck was with her. While kicking out lustily, her right leg encircled a guide rope to break the plunge, but left her swaying dangerously far above the ground.

The other half of the "Blonde Sensations," Anne Howe, also of Boston, was above her and unable to aid. To the rescue went Lawrence Saunders, manager of the act, who mounted a ladder, pulled the trapped victim towards him and freed her.

Both descended while the crowd, stricken silent by the drama in the unbilled act, breathed relief and broke into cheers.

Although her ankle was sprained and cut, Miss Clark stuck strictly to the code of performers that "the show must go on."

My Bark Saves 'Em From Fire!

By LADY SCOTTIE McDUFF

Everyone on my block in Summer street, Cambridge, is patting me on the head today and calling me a heroine, but as I see it I was only doing my duty.

You know I owe a lot to my mistress, Miss Alma E. Cormack, for the fine home she has given me, and to the other tenants in our house for their kindnesses to me.

So when I smelled smoke before dawn today I just knew all these people were in danger and I upped out of my nice warm bed to warn them.

I'll admit I can't bark very loud, but I tried my best to make as much noise as I could to awaken Miss Cormack and the 11 other people upstairs.

Gee! I was glad to see the big fire engines arrive and know that my mistress and Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Ranklin, Miss Amelia Bastile and Miss Elsie R. Stevens were saved by my feeble efforts.

The smoke I swallowed when I barked in the hallway kind of gave me a sore throat today and I can't talk much about the fire but I can still wag my tail to respond to the congratulations pouring in on me for my "still" alarm.

I think I'll take an extra long nap today to make up for the sleep I lost when the fire broke out.

been questioned a month previously in connection with a newborn baby's body, found in the Merrimack river.

Today, Detective Edward Glennon, special investigator for District Attorney Warren L. Bishop's office said:

"Not involved at all is the doctor who attended her at the time of her death."

It was in the hospital he was to be questioned by Detective Glennon and Assistant District Attorney James P. O'Sullivan.

Heiress Bans $100,000 Debut

Newport felt somewhat let down today by the news that a major event of the social season had been called off — 17-year-old Evalyn McLean's projected $100,000 coming out party.

"It's like putting a girl on the auction block," Evalyn was reported as saying.

"It's as silly as being presented at court," her mother, the fashionable Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, was quoted as agreeing.

And so—boom! went all the plans for the $100,000 coming out that was to have been Newport's biggest, most gorgeous, most glittering affair in its society history of the decade.

The McLean estate at Newport was closed today. Mrs. McLean was in Washington, where, in addition to queening it in capital society, she is the owner of a Washington newspaper.

Seventeen-year-old Evalyn, it was stated, is visiting her brother in Colorado.

Plans for Evalyn's debut were announced in April, and her coming out party scheduled, at that time, for August. August, however, has come and gone, and—no party.

EVALYN M'LEAN

Glamour Is Out!

"Evalyn doesn't want a debut," her mother said today. "She won't have a debut—ever—she says. I talked to her on the long-distance telephone last night. She says she doesn't want to be a 'glamour girl.'

HOPE DIAMOND HEIRESS

"I suppose people think they're getting their daughters into society, but they should realize anyone can get plenty of people to come and drink and dance all night—people who will go away and laugh the next day."

Evalyn, who, among other things, will inherit the famous, "unlucky," 44¾-carat Hope diamond, wants to be a designer, her mother revealed. The Hope diamond, incidentally, once belonged to May Yohe, famous stage beauty of the 90's, who died here, a WPA worker, this week.

Evalyn has entered an art school in Washington and hopes to go to London eventually to study, her mother said. She "hates Paris," Mrs. McLean declared.

Hits Church Women Failing Daughters on Facts of Life

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (INS)—When church women busy themselves with ladies aids, their daughters are starving for sex education, Rev. E. B. Glabe of Minneapolis declared, addressing a meeting here of the Associated Lutheran Charities.

Rev. Glabe said:

"Too often ladies aids have listened to vague devotionals on morbid piety or wrestled with revenue producing schemes for the congregational treasury while their own daughters hungered for the truth of sex facts.

"Marriage is too sacred to be ignored by the church or played with by the world. Gutter literature and alley gossip would lose their appeal to youth if the church would help in sex education.

"Missionary societies have agonized over the dark lot of women in far off lands while the bootleg traffic in birth control flourished among the unmarried of their own community."

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes from the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

'Land Is Ours,' Says Cardenas

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2 (INS) — President Lazaro Cardenas today had told the opening fall session of Congress that Mexico will agree to negotiate with the United States through a joint commission to settle American claims for expropriated ranch land.

But Mexico, the President declared, will "go on with its agrarian reform program" and thus will turn down the demand from the United States to cease expropriating farm lands belonging to Americans.

Cheered by the deputies and senators, the President further served notice on Washington that Mexico intends to reimburse the former owners of expropriated oil properties only for their investments, minus depreciation, and will pay nothing for the sub-soil deposits which under law belong to the nation.

Referring to his oil expropriation decree of last March, which affected some $500,000,000 worth of American and British properties and led to a diplomatic rupture between Mexico and Britain, Cardenas declared:

"The government sustains the thesis that the expropriation of the petroleum properties cannot call for indemnification or compensation for sub-soil deposits. These, according to our law, belong to the nation. Mexico will not grant any further concessions relating to that which is beneath the surface of the earth."

Cardenas disclosed the outlines of the forthcoming Mexican reply to the note from Secretary of State Hull, who termed the Mexican land expropriation "bald confiscation."

The Mexican President said his government would consent to name a commissioner to discuss the American land claims and the method of compensation with a commissioner named by the United States, the two commissioners to appoint an arbiter as suggested by Hull.

Ananian's Wife Keeps Last Vigil

After an all-night vigil beside her husband's bier, a pretty, dark-haired young woman with dull, glazed eyes stared resentfully at the strangers who today kept trooping into the funeral parlor on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

She was Katherine Ananian, wife of Harold Ananian, 27, who hanged himself in his cell while awaiting trial for the payroll truck holdup in which a bandit-companion was fatally wounded by police bullets.

"Why do they come?" she asked, "All these morbidly curious people—why can't they let me alone with my sorrow?"

Ananian was to be buried this afternoon in Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, after brief services at 2 in the funeral chapel.

Recall petitions against the three Norwood selectmen who voted to fire Town Manager William E. Kendrick were signed today and ready for immediate filing.

Bogus Bills Have Spots

A very dark spot over the right temple on the portrait of Andrew Jackson today was listed by Secret Service agents as a major defect in the counterfeit $20 bills flooding New England.

Harry L. Barker, in charge of the Boston office, said sizable rewards were available for information leading to the arrest of those attempting to pass the bills.

He asked that anyone doubting genuineness of a $20 bill delay the owner on some pretext and call police.

New Garment Picketing Set

Strike strategy plans for an advance upon another Kneeland street garment center were being mapped out today as those involved in the current employer-employe impasse sought to iron out their mutual difficulties.

The present two-weeks-old strike has been carried on from Kneeland street garment factories Union officials said shops housed results would be their next target.

Meanwhile the picket lines in the trouble zone were reinforced and inside 81 workers became more restive.

Following the 70th picket arrest on traffic obstruction charges yesterday in an effort by police to keep the streets clear, 19 more pickets were arrested today.

The picket conference began today with Federal Conciliator Anna Weinberg at its head. It is slated to last today with representatives of employers and workers trying to get at the root of the trouble.

"Regardless of the outcome of the conference," declared Philip Kramer, Boston head of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, "the progressive strike will continue.

"We will next move upon a nearby building and stay there until every shop in the building has been unionized."

2 Masked Kidnapers Flee With Woman, 55

the Associated Press, federal bureau of investigation agents left for the scene to join sheriff's officers and the state highway patrol. S. J. L. Unger, head of the San Francisco office of the FBI, said his agents in Sutter county would take charge of the case.

Orders to all members of the state highway patrol to watch the roads for the stolen automobile were issued by Raymond Caito head of the patrol.

Meeks automobile was found abandoned on one of the main streets of Marysville, and FBI men examined it for fingerprints. Sheriff Ullrey theorized the men must have used two automobiles when they drove away from the Meeks' place.

RECALLS LYNCHING

The rancher "guessed" the men were about 24 or 25 years old. They were about five feet nine or ten inches tall. White handkerchiefs covered their faces up to their eyes and kept the rancher from being able to give a good description of either abductor.

The Meeks ranch is at Rio Oso, 12 miles south of Marysville, which adjoins Yuba City, on the highway to Sacramento.

It was the first kidnaping for ransom in northern California in nearly five years. Twenty-two-year-old Brooke Hart of San Jose, department store heir, was the victim of the last northern California kidnap, in November, 1933. His abductors demanded $40,000 ransom and killed Hart the same day. His body was recovered from San Francisco bay and 12 hours later an infuriated mob lynched his confessed kidnapers—Thomas Thurmond and Jack Holmes.

Mrs. Meeks' kidnapers made no attempt to injure her or her husband.

Sheriff Ullrey said the men walked up to the side door of the house, which sits 100 feet back from the highway, but he was unable to determine whether they came from the road or walked through the peach orchard.

Both Meeks and his wife were awake and fully dressed when the men entered. Both were badly frightened and Meeks was unable to remember whether the second man entered a gun. The orchardist and his wife made no attempt to resist the kidnapers.

Sheriff's officers did not know what loot, if any the gunmen obtained after tying up the Meekses.

Doug's Crate Balks But Goes

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP) - The engine which propelled Douglas Corrigan safely across the Atlantic to Ireland sputtered today as the flier took off from Roosevelt field on a flight to Pittsburgh.

Corrigan speeded the famous $900 "crate" along the runway into a northeast wind. With its load of 40 gallons of gasoline, it left the runway smoothly.

At an altitude of 100 feet, however, the engine missed. Mechanics and pilots ran from hangars to watch Corrigan swung the ship to the right in a steep bank apparently to attempt an emergency landing on the field.

Then the engine picked up smoothly again, and the plane, gaining altitude, headed straight west for Pittsburgh. Corrigan had worked on the engine, overhauling it, until 4 a. m.

Mocking Bandits Race Away From Pursuing Police

Sluggish police cruising cars twice were outdistanced today in vain attempts to cope with mocking bandits who dashed through city streets at a 70-mile-an-hour clip.

Six armed and masked bandits, who had held up a Quincy fruit company, led one chase through the South End and Roxbury, then vanished when a police car neatly stalled on a hill.

In another chase in South Boston a stolen car gang eluding hot attempts of other cars to keep pace with them.

John Mathewson of Dorchester, manager of a fruit concern at Neponset bridge was closing up when the two bandits took $150 from his pockets.

Their machine spotted on Lawson park circle Roxbury turned over Eaggles street to Washington down, Harrison avenue and circled the City Hospital twice.

They then sped into Northampton street back to Harrison avenue to Hampden Downs and Mt. Pleasant streets en route to Mattapan dashing away from 14 police cars in all.

Similar thwarted attempts to halt bandits observed in South Boston, was chased into Dorchester by eight cruisers but the powerful machine drew steadily away and escaped.

Police reported the six were about yesterday's dawnlight loot.

Suspect Quizzed On More Breaks

Rene J. Charest, 25, Somerville, who allegedly confessed to frame breaks in seven Greater Boston cities and towns, will be further questioned today in connection with breaks in still other cities.

Brought before Judge Edmund D. Davis in Malden District Court, Charest pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and carrying a firearm without a permit. He was held in $10,000.

BEE KING SEEKS Honey-Girl BRIDE

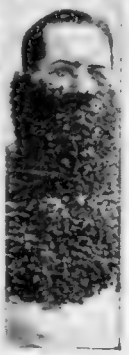
Wanted: A sweet girl who isn't scared of bees!



"It's healthful—but unromantic."

But as soon as I meet a girl somebody down here tells her look out for that fellow he has bees in his attic.

There's just enough truth to it to ruin my chances of making a date. I have to carry a lot of hives around, and of course a few bees do escape in the car. I own about a million or 2 bees.

"They won't sting. But no girl will believe that.

"I know it sounds funny. But the same it's pretty serious. How am I ever going to get married?"

HERE'S TO LABOR DAY

A Great Day for All of Us

When we close the Hanley Brewery on Labor Day, it is always with special appreciation of the meaning of this holiday.

First, because the James Hanley Company has always been in accord with the aims and spirit of Labor. In our files are records and advertisements which show that before the turn of the century, Hanley's was the only Ale brewed in a Union Brewery in Providence.

Second, because workers everywhere have always been among the best and most valued friends of Hanley's Ale. They like its clean, sparkling brilliance and its delicious, satisfying taste and tang. Hanley's prides itself on producing the finest Ale that money can buy.

On this Labor Day, we renew our pledge to give you Hanley's of the same uniform excellence, and we re-dedicate our Company to the high principles of James Hanley, the founder. Upon his policies has been built a great industry, bringing hundreds of thousands of dollars annually into the pockets of American workers and into the various Federal, State and Civic treasuries.

Americans farming fields of barley and of hops—railroadmen and truckmen—workers in glass, can, cooperage and box industries—salesmen, deliverymen, newspaper and radio men, printers, typists, equipment and technical men—licensed wholesalers and retailers—and, last but not least, the men who brew Hanley's Ale—the cellarmen, the brewhouse men, the coopers, bottlers, packers and office workers—everyone, from the office boy to the customer who enjoys the Ale, benefits by the popularity of New England's favorite—Hanley's Ale.

On this Labor Day, wherever you go and whatever you do, be sure to have Hanley's—available on draught, in bottles and cans all over New England.

Kennedy Tips Europe On Peace

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 2 (AP) — United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy gave Europe's leaders a tip today—to follow the example of the United States and Great Britain in settling their differences.

He expressed confidence that Anglo-American devotion to the principle of good natured settlement would "keep us out of war."

The ambassador spoke at a luncheon preceding a Scottish-American-Anglican church ceremony in the Cathedral of Aberdeen.

(Kennedy's speech at the church will be found in an adjoining column.)

CITES ISLAND CLAIMS

His reference was to settlement of British and American claims over the Canton and Enderbury Islands in the South Pacific to which both countries decided to give them in common.

"We have just come through most of a dangerous summer when rumors of war are thick on every hand and when actual armed conflicts are in progress in different parts of the world," Kennedy said.

Fighting, whether called war or not, and threats of fighting come from impatience and inability of leaders to work out pacific settlements.

"They are unwilling or unable to keep hold of the past while marching toward the future.

"They feel they must break violently with what has existed, in their zeal to hasten what they believe is proper development. Such breaks are unnecessary.

GOOD WILL IN CAMEO

"We believe we have just witnessed an example of good-natured settlement of a profound difference of opinion between Great Britain and the United States—a cameo of what world settlement might be if the same intelligent good-neighborliness were always exhibited by different nations.

"Both countries believed that some specks in the Pacific ocean, called islands by courtesy, belonged to them.

"It was impossible to get at the merits of the respective claims in time to solve the current problem, which was their use in the development of civil aviation across the Pacific.

"The two governments saw alike in one thing—that the question of sovereignty must not be allowed to stand in the way of aviation's success just now when it is making such useful strides forward.

ROOSEVELT'S SOLUTION

"President Roosevelt had a happy inspiration.

"It read me suggest to British authorities that the islands be administered jointly by the two governments for a protracted period of time.

"During that time the question of their real utility would be settled and here would be time to investigate patiently and unhesitatingly the issue of their ownership.

"The suggestion was cordially received at the (British) foreign office and the matter was settled along those lines.

"We can admit that the issue was a small one but we still take pride that such sensible and friendless disposition was made of it.

ISSUES USUALLY SMALL

"After all, the issues over which governments make such a fuss are generally small ones or, at least, they start as small issues.

"The difficulty seems to be that contending governments do not get together in a friendly and sensible spirit in the early moments of controversy, before it has grown psychologically into a matter of real import.

"We are blessed that our two countries will never let incipient quarrels progress to a stage of ill-feeling.

"We are imbued with certain old fashioned but still useful qualities—respect for the rights of others and for the sanctity of engagements as well as a genuine love of freedom for the individual."

Kennedy Calls For 'Spiritual War Upon War'

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 2 (AP)—A plea for renewal of faith and spiritual courage in the world was made today by United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy at a Scottish-American-Anglican church ceremony at the Cathedral of Aberdeen.

"It appears to me," he said, "that we have come to a point where spiritual values have so declined in men that incentive is disappearing.

"We must reawaken the flame of faith and spiritual courage which has always enheartened men of right vision in the world's history."

The ambassador laid the cornerstone of a memorial to Bishop Samuel Seabury, who was born November 30, 1729, in Ledyard, Conn., and was consecrated Bishop of Connecticut, November 14, 1784, in Aberdeen.

The ceremony at St. Andrew's Cathedral of the Scottish Episcopal Church marked the bond between the Scottish Episcopal Church and the American Episcopal Church dating from that time.

The memorial is an extension and enlargement of St. Andrew's. Money for it was raised in the United States.

Referring to fears of war in the world, Kennedy declared:

"We must give our young men and women who are just coming of age something else to hope for than a short life of carrying a gun.

"Certainly the peoples of the world do not want to fight each other. Their leaders say that they themselves do not want war unless they are forced into it.

"In such circumstances it should not be beyond the reach of human intelligence to prevent the disaster everyone seems to fear.

"I believe it can be done by the application of principles we have been discussing—by faith, by spiritual courage, by loyalty to right dealing and by the exercise of common sense.

"One of the main—perhaps the main—pillar of the edifice of democracy is the freedom of worship."

In certain parts of the world, Kennedy said, the profession and practice of religion are being called a political offense.

"Men and women are being deprived of their natural-born citizenship. They are being thrown out of the land of their nativity because they profess a certain religion which political authorities have decided to uproot.

"Indeed, many who do not profess a forbidden religion, but whose ancestors did, are being treated with equal rigor."

In other parts of the world the enemy went on, an attempt is being made to eliminate all religion as a factor in human life.

"We are celebrating an outstanding example of freedom of religious worship, and I know we all want to see more of it in our own countries as time goes on," he declared.

Secret British U.S. Loan Plan

debts, or unless the Johnson Act is repealed.

Should Germany precipitate another European war by invading Czechoslovakia and Britain be drawn in, an event which authorities fear will prove inevitable, Britain expects to be able to finance her war needs in the United States for a long enough period to tide them over until public opinion could bring repeal of the Johnson Act.

This latter development is viewed as a certainty in British circles. It is pointed out that American sympathies would certainly be with the democracies in Europe should Germany throw its armed might against Czechoslovakia.

The British are confident this sentiment would grow rapidly to such a point that the American people would demand that the United States give them financial aid.

Meanwhile, the secret British plan is to mobilize the $2,500,000,000 in dollar credits and investments now in this country and make them available for purchase of needed war supplies.

With the British fleet blockading Germany, it is felt that control of the seas would be held by England, and so that her merchantmen could carry the supplies across the Atlantic to Europe.

The huge sum is now in the United States in the form of investments by private British interests in American utilities, various forms of transportation, insurance, factories, stocks and bonds and in liquid funds in American banks.

The plan would provide confiscation of these holdings from private owners by the British government. The government would reimburse its nationals with British paper notes, backed by sterling reserves in their accounts in British banks.

The "mobilized" holdings in this country then would be left here to make the huge scale purchases of food, munitions and raw materials a major war would demand.

Thus Britain would be enabled to finance a major portion of her war needs in the United States without draining her treasury stocks through sending gold bullion to America.

It is for this reason that Britain is not too deeply concerned over immediate settlement of the war debt question which would permit her to hurdle the Johnson Act and obtain huge private loans aggregating from America's international bankers as in the World War.

However, it is admitted in British circles that the war debts are an unpleasant matter which they would like to get out of the way as soon as some rational solution can be found, thus further cementing the bonds of friendship between the two English-speaking countries.

A "rational settlement," in the British sense, though would entail a major scaling down of the debt with cancellation of all interest.

Boston After Dark

BY GEORGE HOLLAND

THE STRANGE MALADY which has claimed more horses at Narragansett than the management cares to admit struck Pelegroso, 2nd, the South American horse, which ran in the Suffolk Downs stake race against Menow (the winner) and War Admiral . . . Pelegroso flashed one good race early in the Suffolk meeting . . . It ran Wednesday at 'Gansett and was well-supported in the mutuels . . . Veterinarians last night despaired of saving the horse . . . Its mortal illness was at work when the animal raced Wednesday . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Your reporter learns that one of the horses entered for Saturday's $25,000 Narragansett Special will be reported "scratched" the day of the race . . . It has been "scratched" right enough . . . By the Grim Reaper. The report comes from an authority very close to the Scene . . .

What is a "jitterbug?" Some of the boys in the office were trying to define the word as a gesture of help to one of the mates assigned to write a story on the species . . .

Dave Siskin, Warner Brothers Director of Music Corporation of America, the outfit that books some 400 topflight, medium and assorted attractions out to town last night and defined "jitterbug" expertly . . .

"Last year we called them screwballs," volunteered Mr. Werblin. "This year they are 'jitterbugs'" . . .

Well, the Mrs. Werblin was Mrs. Werblin, and she was Leah Ray, one of the lovely singers when she supported Phil Harris' band . . . John Kane, operator of The New York Lantern Room in Lynn, has signed Mr. Werblin to handle some Boston entertainment at the Lantern spot in Lynn, where he will install a miniature replica of the Lantern Room in the Big City . . . Kane worked in the dining department of the Boston spot in 1932, when he was known just as Johnny Kane . . . He came to Boston to see Gower and Jean, the dancing team, and all-night diner manager Max Wasserman knew Gower and Jean's whereabouts at the time . . .

If Gower and Jean haven't heard it yet, they have been signed to appear at the Rainbow Room when they finish their Boston engagement . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Harry Marshard and his orchestra will play the Walk-Up Club's closing dance at Weirs-on-the-Lake tomorrow night . . . The new Jimmie Lunceford band is the last one that the Hub will be ready to open . . .

A preview of the theater revealed to your correspondent that bundles of money have been tossed into the theater's remodeling and beautification . . . It is a gem of comfort and charm . . . Police Commissioner J. E. Theberge of Fall River met his old friend of House of Representative days, Congressman Tom Flaherty, at the Coconut Grove . . . The Fall River police head was en route to South Portland, Me., for a Labor Day vacation . . .

American Airlines anticipated the biggest week-end travel in the line's history today and tomorrow out of Boston . . . And a new "admiral" of the American flying fleet is H. Ted Thomas, the liquor man. Michael J. Kelliher of Cambridge, North Weymouth and the insurance world, will make the trip to California for the convention of his beloved pals of the American Legion . . .

Clyde Lucas will be the opening attraction at the Statler's Terrace Room . . . Clyde Lucas will follow Lucas and the plan is to keep him for [illegible] . . .

Howard Johnson has invaded the New York field, and a place bearing the name familiar to so many New Englanders is turning them away on the Jericho Turnpike, Garden City, Long Island . . . The Johnson operations will be national, according to plans . . . Another local name due to be served to the entire country is "Mosie" . . .

A publicity suggestion which the management can have "for free" is that they get the lexicographers to insert the word in dictionaries . . . It could be done.

Ed Rickard, who does marvelous tricks in shadowgraphs with his hands, is at the Mayfair . . . He was the double used in achieving shadow effects in "Double or Nothing" and "Souls at Sea" films . . . They say some touchies from New York are on the sidelines of a local strike . . .

Deal Battles Give GOP Hope

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (INS) — Bitter conflict among California Democrats over the "$30-every-Thursday" pension plan and the spirited battle for Democratic senatorial nomination in Maryland, today spurred Republican hopes of increasing their strength in the Senate.

That the Democratic warfare in California by no means ended when Sheridan Downey rode the pension plank to a triumphant victory over Senator William G. McAdoo in their race for the senatorial nomination was evidenced clearly in McAdoo's comment on the primary.

WARNS OF PARTY RUIN

Decrying the pension plan as a cruel delusion of old age and deserving people, he bitterly warned it would ruin the Democratic party in the state if the party endorses it.

Serious doubt was expressed here that the McAdoo and Downey forces will unite sufficiently by November to assure a Democratic victory at the polls. And hopeful New Dealers, viewing the California battle, declared that they have small hope of such a union of anti-purge forces.

Similar hopes are entertained in the Maryland primary Tuesday, when Senator Millard E. Tydings, weight of the Roosevelt administration behind the candidacy of Rep. David J. Lewis, 100 per cent New Dealer, will run against Representative Martin F. Talbot. Tydings, one of the G. O. P. leaders in the Senate, will be opposed by Democratic Governor Harry W. Nice, who will be backed by Democratic National Committeeman Blair T. Allen, Democratic Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore and other New Deal leaders.

Farley Bids Maine 'Get Into Step With Deal'

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 2—"Get into step with the rest of the United States."

This today was the parting instruction of James A. Farley after a whirlwind trip to [illegible] that turned down President Roosevelt in the last election.

Speaking at Colby College athletic field, Postmaster General Farley said the administration was not peeved because Maine went Republican but that "we expect you back in the fold in 1940."

In one day, Farley whirled over 200 miles to visit briefly in mill towns and cities in behalf of "his personal friend," F. Harold Dubord, and former Governor Louis J. Brann, the respective Democratic candidates for U. S. Senator and Governor.

Farley said the nation will in the future "be a liberal democracy" and that even should the Republican party again come into power the "course of progress" would be halted but briefly.

Lynn Workers Rejoice

[illegible] are buying American, orders are pouring [illegible] to do their part [illegible] and a new era of prosperity [illegible].

We [illegible] experience that when an American [illegible] anything that could have been made by an American [illegible] dollar is taken out of the American economy [illegible] of American prosperity.

THE LOVE RACKET has been driven from Massachusetts. Such is the proud boast of Representative Katherine A. Fogg of Lawrence, sponsor of the law banning breach of promise suits.

Few tears will attend the departure of this kind of legal action. As Mrs. Fogg wisely says, "You can't put a price on affection. Women with hearts truly broken do not parade their grief before the public. Dollars and cents are not 'balm' for an unfortunate love affair."

MAE YOHE'S ASHES, soon to be scattered upon Cape Cod waters, will find a theoretical resting place on the shores of America and Europe.

Thus is revealed the remarkable flair for showmanship that distinguished the career of this once-great actress.

We like to think that out there in the broad Atlantic Mae Yohe will find the restful peace no possession, not even the Hope diamond, ever seemed to bring her in life.

A HERO'S MEDAL belongs to Miss Olga Ollen, courageous and quick-witted City Hospital nurse. Certainly her plucky [illegible] not to pass unnoticed.

When an "El" motorman was struck by a train at Forest Hills station Wednesday, it was Nurse Ollen who leaped into the pit, ripped open the injured man's trouser leg and applied the life-saving tourniquet.

THE RECORD REGISTRATION of new voters in Boston is encouraging. If all of the 334,859 men and women eligible to cast ballots go to the polls on September 20, REPRESENTATIVE candidates will be chosen.

One of our big troubles in the past has been that too many of our people have been "too busy" or too lax in their duties of citizenship to vote.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2

NO one has charged more gravely, nor a little more frankly, than has Mr. Roosevelt himself, that in the hands of others the enormous powers reposed in him by a succession of rubber-spined Congresses although he didn't thus describe them might become the instrumentalities of tyranny.

With characteristic audacity the President painted this fear to the very Congress from which he was asking even larger grants of power. The perfect Roosevelt touch!

The President meant what he said, and his words were true. It is evident that the country has not so much fear Mr. Roosevelt, as it fears the precedents which he has established.

Now just here lies the danger in Mr. Roosevelt's determined effort to control the United States Senate. He desires a group of New Dealers who will blindly follow him and vote for his reforms. Some other President some day may have a bit of evil motive.

The same old finger in Democratic pies of the Senate runs in the record under the Constitution the Senate is the only body which [illegible] may an appointment until it has approved it. President.

UNDER the Constitution the impeachment of a President is the only way to get rid of him, most of the executive functions by the House of Representatives. The House is a large body, difficult to control, but the Senate.

But the Senate is small and the Senator in office must pay attentions as well as a court of last resort a President who has been impeached by the popular body.

Under the Constitution a two-thirds vote is required for conviction in impeachment cases. A President impeached by the House would be secure from conviction by controlling one more than one-third of the Senate.

Thus it is a serious thing for any Chief Magistrate to establish the precedent that a President may with impunity seek to control the election of Senators.

And the people are actuated by the profoundest impulses of self preservation when they resent and resist this encroachment.

SO MUCH resentment has been kicked up over the Democratic Senatorial primaries, that the people have almost lost sight of the House contests.

Representative Pat Drewry, of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, estimates that to date some 50 changes in the House are indicated, from the defeat of candidates, voluntary withdrawals and deaths.

But Pat still doesn't think the Republicans are going to profit very much. After going over his reports he concluded that Joe Martin, of Massachusetts, was talking through his hat when the other day he predicted a Republican gain in the next House of 70. Said Pat:

"I won't concede a net Republican gain of 20 seats. The situation is improving for the Democrats. The soreness in Ohio over the gubernatorial fight is dying out. Indiana is in fine shape. The situation has improved in Illinois. All my reports are optimistic."

The Brighter Side

Variety Is Spice Of Life in Films

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.

WHEN ONE of those movie cycles gets just so far, some picture maker invariably steps in with a picture to end all pictures of that particular cycle. A cycle, as all cash customers of the movies are well aware, is a virulent rash of pictures of one certain theme.

The cycle-ender's method is very simple. He just puts in a double portion of everything that all the other pictures of the cycle possess, and the result sort o' asphyxiates us cash customers and causes us to go groping out of the theaters seeking fresh air.

We are not prepared to say what motive prompts the cycle-enders in putting the kibosh on what is often a round of fairly entertaining and perhaps profitable pictures. Some say it is just a laudable desire to out-do the other fellows, and others suspect a slightly sadistic tendency on the part of the cycle-enders.

Then again there are cash customers who contend that the cycle-enders are public benefactors in a small way. They say the cycle-enders generally arrive just in time to prevent an epidemic of suffering of the brain among the cash customers. Some of these cash customers even claim that a cash customer can stand only so much of a picture cycle before going stark, staring daffy.

Damon Runyon

Our own reply to that is that it depends entirely on what the cycle is. It is a Western picture cycle we mean in connection with the last pioneer cycle and the next to the last newspaper cycle ready had us screaming "Stop Press" out of sleep.

We are glad that the phrase is dead only our respondent fancy and that we never uttered it while awake. The boys in our set would have been surprised. In years of knocking around newspaper offices we never heard it one fellow use that ever.

He was a fellow named Hicks who was feeding the press in the office of the old Trinidad Advertiser out in Colorado back down the years and he somehow got his foot caught in the machinery. He yelled "Stop Press" so loudly that he aroused the guests in the Columbia Hotel a block or so up the street and they complained to the management about having their rest disturbed.

We must say that we do not dislike newspaper cycles because we can get in a bit of unfinished thinking at those periods. When the picture comes on, we just relax and start thinking about something that we did not have time to think of outside the theater. We are getting that way about the homey cycle that is now afoot in the movies.

It is about time for the cycle-enders to get busy on that one.

THE DEWEY CYCLE that is now upon us promises to be a brief one. The cycle-enders climbed on that one right at the last. The Dewey cycle is one about the dauntless hero of the city crash[illegible] the racket and putting the racket fellows in jail or killing them off. And it is even if they have to resort to the convenience of having them commit suicide, though if you ask us, that finish is a little out of character for a racket bloke.

We hope the cycle is not permitted to continue long enough for the picture makers to attempt to explain how "Abbadabba" fixed the pari-mutuels payoffs so that numbers that would be bad for the numbers boys would not come out.

Some of the most learned minds in the country are tottering as a result of trying to figure that out and if we get the somewhat less stalwart mentalities of the picture chappies of Hollywood to working on it, we fear it would wreck them completely.

We hope that does not happen.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"DID you really mean it, or were you only fooling?" writes a Doubtful Damsel, referring to my 12 rules for Perfect Beauty, six of which flatly contradicted the other six.

Certainly, I mean it! I really mean that, outside of the Ten Commandments, there is no set of rules that will work for EVERYBODY!

For instance, here are 10 rules for lames-in-love, guaranteed to hold a husband's affection. But not even a robot could follow them all.

1—Always be perfectly frank and sincere with him.

2—Never tell him ALL about yourself. Leave something to his imagination.

3—Always consult him about what you are going to do. Men hate "surprises"—only women believe in Santa Claus.

4—Never consult him about what you are going to do, and thus avoid arguments. Tell him about it, after you've DONE it and it is a fact.

5—Be a pal, a working partner and a helpmate. Marriage is a 50-50 partnership, not a graft.

6—Don't be too capable and efficient.

7—Keep yourself slender and girlish at any price.

8—Never starve yourself for the sake of a slender figure. Fat wives are usually good-natured, contented wives.

9—Keep a spotless, well-regulated house for him to come home to.

10—Don't try to keep your house as neat and orderly as an operating room. Remember it's a HOME, not a show place.

All of which merely proves that it's a poor rule that won't work both ways — like Corrigan's compass, and that one woman's meat is another woman's poison. Write your own rules—and you'll solve your own problem.

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

A MAN named Joseph L. Parsons, who comes, originally, from Boston and who used to be connected with the circus, has invented a new gambling game that will probably make him a millionaire.

Ann Marsters

It's played actually, with gold fish.

We won't attempt to describe the complicated mechanism of the machine itself, which includes an electric eye that lights up the score board when a fish swims by. But here's a general idea of how it's played:

The player puts in a nickel, a net moves over the surface of the big goldfish tank, neatly scaring the fish into the forward compartment, and causing one of several numbers to light up on the score board. Suppose the number is "3". The player then tries to drive his goldfish back through the No. 3 channel before some other fish swims through another channel. See? The player must maneuver the net in a skillful manner to do this. If he succeeds, he wins, and Parsons pays off.

It has taken Parsons three years to perfect the goldfish game. Now, big amusement interests in Florida and Nevada are trying to sign him up. He's going to Reno soon to install a really mammoth version of his game. Instead of goldfish, he'll race, for instance, a salmon, a pickerel, a flounder and a catfish.

"The thing has endless possibilities," he says, modestly. "And the beauty of it is the game is honest. You can't put the fix on a fish."

How quickly the summer has gone. That's what most of us are saying or thinking as we see the "Back to School" signs in the shop windows.

The stores are filled with mothers clutching the hands of their headed-for-school children. As for the smaller children, it's fairly easy to spot the ones who will be going to school for the first time. They hold their heads high, their snub noses in the air, and there's a sense of pride and importance in their every look and gesture.

We saw one such little girl in Jordan's children's department. She was gazing at dresses with a haughty, selective gaze. Then suddenly she saw a brief, bright red gown on a counter.

"Oh, Mother," she cried, "I LOVE that."

But mother was more interested in a solid blue school dress. The little girl turned over the red dress. She stretched out her hand, gently, a few pats that were infinitely gentle and loving. In her grave dignity, she did not want her mother to buy the dress. But when her mother turned her on, she looked back over her shoulder until it was no more than a crimson dot.

Perhaps, for a while, there will be an awful yearning in her heart, but the red dress will soon be submerged beneath the problem of why two and two makes four.

CASUAL FRAGMENTS: I have read an advance copy of Gertrude Atherton's new book "Can Women Be Gentlemen" and have concluded that this venerable lady of talent has written a few chapters which will kindle pulpit flames all over the English-speaking world. . . . Can you get the impression that Miss Atherton . . . has a real concern about the future of the question of the Middle Ages?

Good Manners

Informal Family Dinners Can Be Real Affairs

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1—Will you kindly tell me whether it is good taste, at an informal family dinner, for the waiter or butler (the man serving the dinner) to be dressed in a tuxedo? Although the dinner will be quite elaborate, the guests will be in afternoon (very informal) attire.

2—Also please explain the use of finger bowls . . . not when they are brought in during the meal, but at what type of meal they are brought in, or if at every meal? G.

1—In a formal household the butler, after six o'clock in the evening, wears regulation evening dress except that, instead of the usual white waistcoat and white tie (which his master would wear) he wears a black waistcoat and white wash-tie (white lawn). His trousers are without braid, and usually his coat has plain (not satin) lapels.

If the butler, as often happens in an informal household, is a combination of butler and general utility man, he often wears black trousers and a white or black house coat during the day and even when he is serving dinner.

2—Finger bowls are brought in after lunch or dinner.

There are two types of service for the serving of dessert and for the placing of finger bowls. The first is the formal service, in which the dessert is served first, and then the finger bowl is brought in on its plate. In this service, the dessert plate (a china plate or a saucer-shaped glass plate) is placed on a china plate. On the right of the plate is placed the dessert spoon; on the left, the dessert fork. After the dessert has been eaten, a fruit plate with a finger bowl on it, is placed in exchange for the dessert and under-plate. Usually a fruit knife and fork are brought in on the plate; or they may be supplied to only those who take fruit.

The informal service is the one oftener used, the single service of dessert plate and finger bowl. The finger bowl is brought in on the dessert plate. The dessert silver is also brought in on this plate.

Finger bowls should be less than half filled, either with cold or tepid water. Sometimes a few small blossoms, sweetpeas or one or two tiny rose-buds or violets, are put in the water. But never, never a slice of lemon, with its implication of greasy fingers!

It is important, too, for the hostess to remember that finger bowls should be placed with certain courses at lunch or dinner . . . for example, when corn-on-the-cob is served, or artichokes.

Hobbies Easy Money-Makers

Her hobby pays double dividends to Helen. She began to make artistic lampshades for pleasure. Now friends delightedly buy them.

That's the way with many hobbies—and they take much less talent than you'd think.

There's knitting. Lots of people do it lackadaisically, but if you make it your hobby—experiment in colorful wools, new patterns—you may turn out creations that exclusive shops will pay money for.

Somehow what you love to do you do well and rewards just plop in your lap. A man who once made little models of stage sets for his own pleasure now makes models professionally. A woman whose hobby was cats now writes a "cat column" for a big newspaper.

As for the amateur collector, how often you read of him cashing in on a big find—a rare stamp or coin, a print of historic value.

Yes, you've thrills aplenty when you have a hobby—so pick yours now from the 78 described in our 40-page booklet, "Fun with a Hobby." Inexpensive and simple things to make, collect, do or learn. How to use your hobby for more fun, friends, profit.

Send 15c for our booklet, "Fun with a Hobby," to Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

This oval doily—suitable for centerpiece, buffet or luncheon set—measures 18x36 inches; the other doilies 12 inches x 6 inches. Made of string, to work up easily. The richness of the design will give you pleasure.

Pattern 1841 contains directions for making doilies; illustrations of them and of stitches; materials required; photograph of section of doily.

Safeguard for Whooping Cough

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PARENTS NOW have made up their minds about another form of immunization for their children, that against whooping cough. Some day the time will come when young children will have to take off a substantial year and be immunized against everything all at once.

The whooping cough question arises in connection with the apparent success of the Sauer vaccine. I think it is fair to advise parents that this should be given to their children, but it is by no means in the same class of necessity or certainty as diphtheria and smallpox vaccination. It is however, perfectly safe.

Whooping cough is by no means a minor malady, although often so regarded. It not only makes a child very weak and sick, but has a very definite death rate. Anything that can be done to prevent it, therefore, is to be desired and welcomed.

Since Dr. Sauer introduced his vaccine in 1924 there has been a marked reduction in the incidence of whooping cough. From 1918 to 1935 there were reported in the United States on the average 196,000 cases of whooping cough a year. In 1936 there were 147,000. The figures for 1937 are not yet available but the indications are that the decrease will be maintained.

DUE TO VACCINE?

Was this due to the vaccination of the public with the vaccine? That seems hardly likely. In some cities the vaccine was not used but it is hard, in any given area, to have made that [illegible] difference.

So, it may have played somewhat of a part. Among the statistics of cases that have had the vaccine, [illegible] indicates that the Sauer vaccine protects [illegible] cases, over 90 per cent of those immunized. Of 3000 children who were thus vaccinated, 28 were subsequently known to be exposed to whooping cough and only 17 contracted it.

That record of course [illegible] compared to the results of diphtheria prophylaxis, but it is encouraging. Perhaps the most notable example, I know of, to effectiveness was in the case of a family of four children. The father, being of a meticulous frame of mind [illegible] a friend of mine gave two of them Sauer vaccine. Later all four were accidentally exposed to whooping cough. The two who weren't vaccinated caught it, but the others in spite of the fact that they lived with their sick brothers, did not catch it.

I recommend these things for what they are worth. If you decided not to give your child whooping cough vaccine I would not blame you and if you decided to give it to him, I would not blame you.

Stick to Your Health Program

BUSINESS GIRLS should follow the examples of the beauteous ladies of the silver screen, endure a health program and stick to it. The daily "grind" takes it out of one. To keep fit there must be opportunities to compensate for the wear and tear caused by the expenditure of energy.

Some career girls never give a thought to what they eat. To them eating is a duty, not a pleasure. That is all wrong. Every meal should be a pleasant event. Plenty of time should be taken for it; there should be a few minutes of rest afterward. Nutrition is important.

None begrudges [illegible] a lot, but the girl who [illegible] fully for that period of time starts the day with zest. She is [illegible] the job with enthusiasm. Sleep [illegible] worries away. The busy [illegible] with [illegible] keeps [illegible] necessary. They [illegible] that [illegible] of sleep [illegible] off the [illegible] Sensible [illegible] should be done. The woman who [illegible] relaxing [illegible] a card [illegible] for [illegible], a [illegible] companion [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] over a pot.

NORTH SHORE breezes will ruffle even the smoothest coiffure as indicated by the tousled locks of Cynthia Sortwell and Pauline McKean, popular North Shore debutantes. They were photographed the day after Cynthia's return from Europe, when she was telling Pauline about some of the amusing experiences of her trip, at an outdoor fete in Ipswich. Barbara Stevens To Wed Soon

Barbara Stevens is the center of attention of younger North Shoreites, who are giving a round of parties to celebrate her approaching marriage to James Abbott Hutchinson, Jr., of West Newton.

The wedding will take place a week from tomorrow, September 10, at the summer home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, in Manchester. The bride's sister, Anne Coolidge Stevens, will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Peggy Hardwick, Ardelle Moseley, Barbara Foss and Anne Parry.

John Whiton Hutchinson will be his brother's best man and the usher corps will include John Pierce Chase, John Garrison, Lincoln Brayton and James M. Robbins. The reception will also take place at Mrs. Coolidge's residence.

VACATIONISTS

A festive holiday program is planned for visitors at The Pines in Digby, Nova Scotia, scenic resort so popular with American tourists. Bostonians registered there at present include Mrs. Chauncey W. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Chadwick of Dedham with their daughter, Constance, and Mr. and Mrs. George Gifford of Cambridge.

Kickhams Return Home

Although Labor Day marks the official end of the summer season, many prominent Boston folk have already returned to town.

After a leisurely vacation on Squirrel Island in Maine, Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. Kickham have returned to Brookline. They were glimpsed at the Ritz Roof dining and dancing. Mrs. Kickham, prominent in Bellarmine Academy and Boston College auxiliary alumni, was attractively gowned in gray and white checked taffeta ensemble.

Up from her Cohasset home for a gay evening intown was Grace Genevieve O'Malley, escorted by Jim Mutrie. Grace who was graduated from Manhattanville College in New York last June, was attractively attired in dubonnet and white print.

Neil Holland accompanied Marie Murray, who was smartly gowned in navy blue crepe. Also glimpsed Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Reilly whose wedding last June was one of the outstanding events of the early summer season. Mrs. O'Reilly, the former Kay Field, chose a peacock blue crepe and matching chapeau for her dining and dancing.

Cape Yachting Enthusiasts Busy

Mrs. John Hallowell, William G. Saltonstall, Francis A. Harding and D. T. Robinson, Jr., are among the Cape Cod sailing enthusiasts who have entered larger boats in the races which take place at Pocasset today as part of Children's Hospital Week on the Cape.

Esther Mulrenin Mattapan Bride

Peabody Man Is Bridegroom

ONE of the month's most attractive brides was blonde Esther Mulrenin of Mattapan, who exchanged wedding vows with George Mulcahy of Peabody at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Angela's Church in Mattapan.

White gladioli and palms banked the altar for the ritual at which Rev. Fr. Ryan, pastor, officiated. White lace cut on princess lines, a tulle veil and a spray of waxy gardenias was the bride's choice of costume.

Her sister, Elizabeth, was her only attendant. Her billowy yellow chiffon frock was topped by a tricorne of apricot velvet. A cluster of French marigolds accented the bridesmaid's smart ensemble.

Best man was John Lynch of Peabody, while the bride's two brothers, Augustus and George Mulrenin served as ushers. Old-fashioned bouquets adorned the table at the Hotel Sheraton breakfast and reception.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Almond Meal Cleanses Blemishes Magically

ALWAYS READY for a close-up, off the screen or on, is Ginger Rogers. If your skin lacks her sunny clarity, perhaps Arline Gould's blemish-clearing discovery is the answer!

By ARLINE GOULD

MIRACLE WORKERS though some of the [illegible] formulation creams may be, they can't do a forever-and-ever job of concealing deep-rooted imperfections like the blackhead.

[illegible] cream is [illegible] but only temporary. And when it comes off what have you? Disillusionment for you or what's more important - for someone else?

A specially prepared almond meal with [illegible] which has captured the secret of snapping a skin out of a blemished state in double-quick time. And it leaves this type of skin, which is invariably without hectic, transparently clear and freshly gleaming.

Start off with a delicate satin-smooth complexion before ever putting on a dab of make-up and you'll do no worrying at those frequent times when wind or sun have swept away every trace of it!

If you've besieged by enlarged pores and blackheads, and you avoid creams of any kind like a plague [illegible] an almond meal wash. You'll even dispense with soap unless you're using a special medicated kind.

As a wash, make a thin paste of a small quantity of the meal like tepid water. Now smooth the paste over the face and neck, and wash it off immediately with a face cloth. This leaves your face fresher and clearer almost immediately. Because the clean, sweet cereals in the meal get right to work on impurities.

Use a tremendously successful pack treatment every day, if blackheads and enlarged pores really have gotten the better of your skin. At night, make a thick paste of the meal with tepid water. Apply this only to those parts of the face where it's needed. Leave it on for ten minutes if your skin is normal, or five minutes if it is dry. Then wash your face and neck with warm water, using a face cloth.

Even a few treatments will yield a remarkable change in the [illegible] ness of the skin's [illegible] and [illegible] be unbelievably more radiant.

If you'd like to [illegible] almond meal compound [illegible] cereals according to [illegible] formula [illegible] heads and enlarged pores [illegible] properly used) phone Arline Gould at LIBerty 4000 week days until [illegible] or write her at the Evening American, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Anti-Wrinkle Insurance

MASSAGE AND soothing creams, combined with ice friction and a sweet disposition, are an insurance against wrinkles. Watch the diet. Nutrition is important; without it the tissue cells become depleted.

It is easier to prevent facial [illegible] inks than to remove them. Deep wrinkles burrow into the underlying fibers. It is difficult if any treatment other than plastic surgery will erase them.

Drawing the eyebrows together causes frowns, squinting puts [illegible] rays around the eyes and the "down-in-the-mouth" expression causes a saggy under-chin. It seems a pity that every woman can't make her face behave. When that is done, the portrait artist will keep smooth until life's autumn comes.

Every ardent beauty seeker should have her 10 minutes of face washing and face creaming every night. The skin loses attention, responds quickly. Neglect is the source of many a complexion ill. When the skin is kept clean, toned with friction, fed with oils, it functions normally, stays young.

It isn't just how one looks today but how one will look 10 years hence. That thought must be kept in mind.

The men and women who spent months in research — studying, traveling, seeing — to make sure that the picture on the screen shall be authentically of its place and its time —

The expeditions which go into distant lands — sometimes far from civilization — to film the picture itself . . . or to gather backgrounds with the unmistakable hall-mark of realism —

The men and women — thousands of them drawn from the 276 arts, industries and professions engaged in the production of motion pictures — the artists and architects, the sculptors and designers, the craftsmen of every sort who have each contributed their part — so that the "movies" may bring you laughter . . . tears . . . adventure . . . romance . . . Alaskan Drama Thrills at Met

Love! Hate! Danger! Action!

That's what they told us in advance about Paramount's latest release here — "Spawn Of The North" — that opened last night at the Metropolitan and they followed it with the invitation to come around and see it for us.

We took them up and they were right.

"Spawn Of The North" may be one million dollar production nine years in the making but it has everything to bring in movie-goers who pay for their tickets.

It has actors, it moves at a brilliant pace, it has a thrilling background, and it tells a story worth listening to.

Briefly, it is the story of the friendship of two men, Henry Fonda and George Raft — torn apart in the murderous days at the turn of the last century when Alaskan waters were the battleground for salmon fisherman of diverse aims.

George Raft, who has been proving that he can act as well as talk out of the side of his mouth turns in a great performance here. A close second for honors is Akim Tamiroff in one of his typical, colorful characterizations as the [illegible] of the piece.

Henry Fonda, who has won his [illegible] with just a touch of [illegible] gentleness to her tough [illegible] and it even with a scar [illegible] Slinker for acting honors [illegible] ful and utterly straightforward [illegible] name of her sex is redeemed by [illegible]

Carole Lombard In 'Rebecca' Lead

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service
(Copyright, 1939 by International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2—David Selznick snatched "Rebecca" right from under the noses of two producers who thought they had the inside track.

"Rebecca" is the coming novel of Daphne Du Maurier, granddaughter of George Du Maurier who wrote "Trilby," the sensation of thirty years ago. The price paid, a little bird tells me, was $50,000, a top amount for a book, but then, as I said, this story was much sought after.

The plum falls into the lap of Louella O. Parsons. Carole Lombard who is the No. 1 femme star on the Selznick lot now. The story, briefly, is that of a young girl who marries an older man and is haunted by memories of his first wife.

The arrival of Mrs. Wallace [illegible] wood's biggest social note among the juveniles who have all been promised a personal introduction to the elephants.

Dropped in to visit Lynn Wagner on the 'set [illegible] time to watch him direct a scene with Jessie Ralph, who was playing a role reminiscent of Marie Dressler brand of comedy. Jessie was so good I wondered why someone hadn't thought of her for all those Dressler stories that have gone begging.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Olympe Bradna, the great [illegible] kissed, has been kissed no less than 16 times by Ray Milland in her current movie; Andrea Leeds vacationing in Del Monte, has been getting the undivided attention of a Mr. Penn of Holland. The Richard Barthelmesses with a party, Miriam Hopkins, Anatole Litvak and Fritz Lang at a night club listening to Henry Robinson who seems to draw those hot potatoes out of a hat.

Hedy Lamarr, Reginald Gardiner and Constance Collier a [illegible] scene at a cafe where Myrna, the mind reader, answered a question put by Hedy most satisfactorily. Oliver Hardy talking enthusiastically about his new sidekick, Harry Langdon; Judith Barrett's favorite boy friend is Landon Laird, a Kansas City newspaperman. He flew out here to see her and her friends say to pop the question.

Joan Crawford's horse Secret is being paid $20 a day to appear with her in "Shining Hour." The Fred Astaires, now visiting Mrs. Astaire's family on Long Island, return after Labor Day; Carl Freund, Viennese actor, hosting a stag party for Errol Flynn, Edmund Goulding, David Niven and the Earl of Warwick. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Austen Lake:

Tom vs. Jake; Why Mere Money Won't Win Flags

THIS IS WRITTEN IN A SPIRIT of analysis rather than criticism. For no major league owner has been more generous with his funds, more patient with failure and more fascinated by his Red Sox problem than Thomas A. Yawkey. Yet each time Tom looks at the New York Yankee monopolists, he must wonder what potent charm is engendered in Col. Jake Ruppert's money that is lacking in his own, and why it is that his own lavish outlay has fizzled where Ruppert's has hit the jackpot.

AUSTEN LAKE

Tom has nearly as many liquid millions as Jake. He has spent his money just as copiously, considering that he is $4,000,000 out of pocket while Ruppert is even with the board. He assembled the finest big-name team that money could buy. And he has more than 100 minor league and college players tucked around in breed farms about the country.

Not only that but when Tom bought the Red Sox in 1932 he had a working knowledge of the ball business, acquired when his late father owned the Detroit Tigers. But when Col. Ruppert purchased the Yankees he purchased a conspicuous failure and hadn't the fuzziest notion of athletic technique, or how players were hunted and what their earmarks were. He was merely consumed, like Yawkey, with a yen to own a ball club and, having the surplus funds, bought the most expensive that he could find.

So it may be that something else mixes with money to make the pennant formula work. For if money alone could do it, Yawkey would have bought whole series of pennants in the Sox years. So what is that which has made the Yankees consistently successful and baffled the Red Sox? Lack of planning of course is the immediate answer. But it goes deeper than that.

THE LONG RANGE ANSWER is that the Yankees have operated for more than a major league year but two major league years. For the system of buying has been to pick up and cultivate the best possible talent in Newark regardless of immediate Yankee needs.

[illegible] Yankees [illegible] with the biggest and most powerful [illegible] So Newark's [illegible] developed from the Bronx [illegible] as well as many [illegible] as the Yankees have [illegible] Newark could [illegible] the Yankees and Boston in 10 [illegible]

Indeed major league scouts agree that Newark, both last year and this, could have finished higher in the American League than either St Louis or Philadelphia and could have given the other teams a stiff rub.

Herman Schulte, Merrill May, Francis Kelleher, Charley Keller, Buddy Rosar, Marius Russo, Atley Donald and Joe Beggs have made the mouths of rival scouts slaver. Their home offices are screaming for material, and here is a warehouse full belonging to a club that doesn't need it immediately and, except for occasional spare hunks, won't sell it.

So the difference in the Yankee system and that elsewhere is the difference of an Arab with who has a well supplied stockroom of every specified necessity of Lawrence who rely on finding replacement [illegible] as needed on the next [illegible] among antiquated [illegible]

THE YANKEES DIDN'T INVENT THE CHAIN system. The Cardinals did. But the Yankees have improved on Branch Rickey's original method of grading players in subsidiary teams in half a dozen leagues from C to double A.

Rickey sprinkled his best players thither and yon where they would keep their respective clubs in the race and sustain home town interest. But the Yankees concentrated their stars in a club of the highest minor league classification and seasoned them like fine wine, made from the best ingredients. For, whether major league magnates recognize it or not, players develop by example and a man's potentialities will expand quicker by proximity with skilled neighbors than by propinquity with a lot of loose-hinged and mokus stumblebums. That is a fundamental both in wine making and human chemistry.

Funny part of it is that Ruppert has spent less, according to available figures, since he started his chain-club system in 1932 than Yawkey's outlay in the three years since Billy Evans has presided over his breed farms.

A conservative guess puts Tom's expenditure at $200,000—it may be more but it's not much less. But Ruppert's debits have been $18,000 in '34, $20,000 in '35, $20,000 in '37 and a goose-egg zero this year, or a grand total of $58,000 since the initial outlay.

And so, while the Red Sox are growing gradually more brittle with the years and like October's leaves, falling one by one, the Yankees look forward to an indefinite domination of the League with carefully nurtured hot house buds ready to be grafted on the stems of the pennant bush as the old husks drop off.

Thus mere millions don't make pennants year after year. But Ruppert's "Understudy system" of concentrating selected players under one roof and one management does.

The old scatter-gun method is antiquated and although the millionaires of baseball, like Walter O. Briggs, Sam Breadon, Paul Wrigley, Powel Crosley, Alva Bradley and Chas. Stoneham, may interrupt the Yankee march with occasional pennant and World Series victories, they won't stop Yankee domination over the long pull until they copy Yankee method.

Stinging Bees Home, Seeking More Honey

They come home [illegible] of the majors after a record of 12 wins and seven defeats and with Manager Casey Stengel's pennant being sung by friends and rivals alike.

These Bees [illegible] not fold, [illegible] they can settle in the runner-up berth and stay there into the finish.

Reserves Worry Melrose Coach

Melrose High footballers couldn't meet the problem head on and, for the first time in the history of the school they have reported for preliminary workouts before classes opened.

Last week the squad was barely further advanced than it used to be years ago when they were content to wait for the cool and humid weather. And again Coach Harold Power couldn't see why other Greater Boston schools should get the jump on him.

"Don't forget," he boomed, "We have an unbeaten and untied slate to defend this year and the sooner we get organized, the quicker we'll be rolling."

Upon inquiring further, another reason why he called his warriors out a week earlier, was soon seen. Of the 40 hand picked spring candidates that turned out at Alumni Field yesterday only two are regulars of last years championship eleven.

Betting Coup Fails in Chicago

Cheaters Bow Out For $50,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (INS)—A ruling by the Illinois Racing Commission laid bare a strange story of a "ringer" that didn't ring the cash register for betting conspirators today.

The horse that cheated the cheaters after approximately $50,000 was bet on him, according to the ruling was entered as Laddy Boy Ring, which ran on Aug. 2 at Washington Park.

Laddy Boy Ring finished second to The Boxer, a 66-to-1 shot.

As a result of the scandal ten men, all charged with complicity, have been ordered to appear before the racing commission for a hearing Sept. 9, but it was not known whether any would show up.

JOCKEY IN WRONG

H. J. Lubbzing of San Antonio, Tex., owner and trainer of Laddy Boy Ring, has been ruled off the turf and Jockey George Napier of Galesburg, Ill., suspended. The eight others said to be involved are Dr. Horace C. Reith, Jimmy Fischer, E. C. Fischer, John M. Sperry, Alvin Moore, Lou Thompson, Chester Bild and C. F. Berry.

According to a confession by the jockey, Moore and the Fischers hired him to come to Chicago from Thistledown track in Cleveland to ride the horse, supposed to be starting its first race.

The commission found that Thompson, Sperry and Bild handled the buying of the horse and arranged the betting coup that went sour at the finish line.

SCHEME FAILS

Washington Park officials learned that the plan to cash in on Laddy Boy Ring was carefully laid. Some $8000 was wagered on him at the track and more than $40,000 elsewhere in anticipation of odds of 15 to 1. The size of the bets, however, chiseled the odds down to 2 to 1 at post time.

Even so, there was $100,000 in it had the scheme worked.

Speed Drivers Race at Medford

A score of begoggled speed demons with their little dynamite buggies will be on hand to see just who is who at Medford's Riverside Park speedway tonight at 8:30 p. m.

These daring drivers have acclaimed the Medford speedstrip as the ideal spot to settle their speed duels. As a result, Dick Sawin of Philadelphia, Ollie Miner of Los Angeles and a host of other tip-top drivers are on hand to find out just what the New England chauffeurs have under their sleek bonnets.

Last year the championship went to Los Angeles with Miner but the hard riding westerner is being led by Emil Bouche of Beverly this year. Time trials start at 7:15 p. m.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 2 (INS)—Carl Hubbell, incapacitated left handed pitcher for the New York Giants, following removal of a cast from his pitching arm "felt sure" today that he would be able to return to baseball.

A small piece of loose bone in the arm has been removed by Dr. J. Spencer Speed. Hubbell said:

"Naturally my arm feels pretty weak after all this time in a cast, but I know it's going to be okay."

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 2 (AP)—Sharpshooters entered the final event of the small bore championship matches of the national rifle shoot today.

The feature was the Remington trophy match, 40 shots at 50 meters, prone. The program also included a series of 30-caliber rifle and 45-caliber pistol matches, many of them preliminary to next week's national championship contests.

Platoon Sergt. Edward V. Seeser of the U. S. Marine Corps, from Lynn, Mass., won the President's 30-caliber rifle match and, therefore, has coming to him a letter of commendation from President Roosevelt, plus a gold medal.

Seeser scored 146 of 150 for 30 shots, 10 fired from 200 yards standing and 10 each from 600 and 1000 yards prone.

Sours on Ladies

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP)—Ladies Days at Forbes Field are no pink teas.

Bill Benswanger, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, whose booming bats have been luring the fans in droves lately, unburdened himself about Ladies Days today.

"The women have caused some terrific jams," he said. "They push, shove and yell. Why, one woman took another's hat off and threw it to the field. The second woman turned around and grabbed the other's shoe and threw it out.

"Two more joined them before they all landed in the police station. You don't see men doing those things."

Fourteen thousand women crammed into the park yesterday on the last Ladies Day of the season to see their favorites trim the New York Giants, 6-0. The crush was so great that a dozen women fainted.

In one of the rarest spectacles in any sports, Alice Belanger defeated her 17-year-old twin sister, Lucile, for the girl's state junior golf championship, 4 to 3, at the Western Golf Club this morning.

This was the third consecutive year in which Alice successfully defeated her title, while sister Lucile was making her first bid. Of the two, Alice was the steadier one and was no match for Lucile.

Canadians Send Durivage to Match

NEW YORK, Sept 2 (AP)—The Canadian Tennis Association thought it was doing young Roger Durivage a favor when it decided to send him to the U. S. tennis championships at Forest Hills, to "gain experience."

Pirates Riding High

By the Associated Press

The National League pennant race—if there's going to be one from here on—is now squarely up to Will McKechnie and his streaky Reds.

With Pittsburgh's parading Pirates riding along on a seven-game lead at this writing, and what is left of the once-proud Giants resting in fourth place, Cincinnati's alternately hot-and-cold outfit either can make a fight of it, or just let it die a natural death.

For, with the season down to its last 30-or-so games, the Reds tangle with the Pirates nine times before they ring down the curtain October 2. No other club meets the blazin' Bucs more than five times the rest of the way, and 15 of the 32 tilts left on the Pittsburgh calendar are against second division outfits.

Thus, if McKechnie can get his boys steamed up when Pittsburgh comes to town (six of the nine games are in Cincinnati), things still are likely to pop, although the chances are the Smoky City crew, looking like the real McCoy in taking three out of four from the Giants in their latest maneuvering, will breeze in.

PIRATES HAVE EDGE

You can't overlook the fact that the Pirates already have won eight of their 13 engagements with the Rhinelanders.

The Pittsburghers, after a sloppy showing all through August, had just about everything yesterday as they opened the final month with a 6-0 whitewashing of the Giants, Bob Klinger, coming off the hospital list, tossed a seven-hitter, and "Lil Poison" Lloyd Waner led a 12-hit attack with a triple and three singles.

This defeat for the Giants, coupled with the Cubs' tight 4-2 decision over the Boston Bees behind Clay Bryant's classy elbowing, mixed up the first division standings like boarding house hash. The Cubs and the Reds, who were idle, climbed into a second-place tie, seven games back of the Bucs. The Giants nose-dived to fourth, half a game farther back.

PLAY BEES 9 GAMES

And since the Giants still must meet up with the fifth-place Bees in nine games, it is conceivable that Terry's Terriers may slide right down out of the first division.

The American League, as you may have heard, has no such fuss for the flag. The Yankees, although dropping their second straight to the Detroit Tigers, 6-3, are in about as much danger as the fellow who has the army and navy for a bodyguard. They boast a 13-game lead, and they've been holding it with a patch-work lineup, minus three key men who are on the sidelines with "miseries."

ARMSTRONG SAYS:

Ambers Earned Return Bout

This is the last of a series of articles by Henry Armstrong, called by experts the "greatest fighter for his weight" in the ring today.

By HENRY ARMSTRONG
(World Featherweight, Welterweight and Lightweight Champion)

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Now, in closing this series, I'm going to tell you about the toughest fight of my entire career, that last one, when I beat Lou Ambers for the lightweight championship.

Petey Sarron gave me a good fight when I won the featherweight title, but I finally knocked him out.

Barney Ross made it interesting in spots, but I had him virtually out on his feet at the finish, when I won his welterweight title. However, in neither of these fights was I cut up and I won with little difficulty in both instances.

FAST BATTLE

With Ambers I not only had to go the entire distance of 15 rounds, but I had to fight each and every round at top speed. I found out, too, that Ambers can punch a lot harder than most people believe, that he is a far greater fighter than he is credited with being, that he is as game as any man that ever stepped into the ring and plenty tough.

TOLD TO CROWD

Before I went into the ring, Mr. Mead said to me:

"I want you to keep crowding in close all the time so Ambers won't be able to dance around, and keep throwing punches. Don't stop wading in and don't stop punching."

That's what I set out to do and I think I made a good job of carrying out the instructions—but not without stopping some punches myself.

RIPPED LIP OPEN

In the second round, one of Amber's uppercuts—the punch he drilled on and used most effectively—ripped open my lower lip, and at other times during the bout he slashed open both of my eyes. Meanwhile, I was centering my attack on his body to wear him down.

In the sixth round, I think it was, I began to suffer from nausea, which I thought at the time was a gas pain, but which later proved to be from blood I was swallowing from the cut on my lip.

Dr. Alexander Schiff, who treated me after the fight, said I swallowed more than a quart of blood. This not only made me ill, but weakened me.

However, all through the fight I kept following Mr. Mead's instructions to "keep moving in and keep punching," and I won the fight by preventing Ambers from boxing out in the open, which is his best style.

DOZEN STITCHES IN LIP

But when it was over, I knew I had been in a fight. The cut in my lip required more than a dozen stitches and will force me into idleness for at least five more weeks.

One thing that I'd like to explain about the fight is my loss of three rounds on low punches. I'd like to mention that they were not intentional, and explain that in a free-swinging battle a few blows are bound to stray. But for them I would have won by an even wider margin.

And finally by way of bringing this to a close, I want to say that I am eager to give Ambers a return match, whenever it can be arranged. However, I intend first to defend my welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia at the New York Garden on November 2, and also my featherweight crown if an opponent can be obtained.

But I want to make this clear—that if ever a man earned the right to a return match in losing his championship it was Ambers—a great fighter and a grand little guy.

Creedon Tops Cape Batters With .417 Mark

By FRANK CONWAY

FALMOUTH, Sept. 2—With just four days to go before the Cape Cod League concludes its 1938 activities, Connie Creedon, Orleans' fleet-footed outfielder, is pacing the loop's hit parade with a .417 average.

While Al Blanche, another Orleans performer, is bashing the sphere at a .444 clip, some 27 points higher than Creedon's mark, he can't be considered the leader for he hasn't played nearly as many games as Creedon.

Falmouth's Walter Sullivan, a Cranston, R. I., boy, is the second regular in the hit parade, sticking for .412, having registered 77 safe licks in 187 trips to the saucer.

The "Babe Ruth" of the Cape circuit, Anthony "Tony" Plansky, Bourne's giant left fielder, gained more points in the last week than any of the other 64 players in the Cranberry loop. He brought his average up 46 points, jumping from an even .300 mark to .346.

Stagehand's Chances In $25,000 Classic

Marica Will Be Betting Choice

By JACK CONWAY

THE YOUNG MEN who handicap the thoroughbreds are already telling me that Tom Taggart's Marica is a sure thing to win the classic $25,000 Narragansett Special on Saturday afternoon. This should be sufficient reason for me to buy a win ticket on Stagehand, Esposa, Thanksgiving, Bull Lea or one of the other horses who will start in the big race.

Mr. Boston

The same cheerful handicappers will tell you that New England is the graveyard for favorites in major races. They will point to the fact that even the great War Admiral couldn't escape this jinx when he competed in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs. As Marica is likely to come up a favorite on Saturday, I would think that the figure men in the press box would pick some other horse to win.

My system of throwing out the favorite and the second favorite, and then betting the next two or three horses to win has often proved successful. Of course if you are a dead long shot player you will throw out the first ten horses in the betting, and play the rank outsiders to come down front in the lead.

I realize that the quickest way to go broke at a race track is by playing the long shots, but as you are going to end up broke anyway if you continue to play the races you might as well have a little fun in the process of going to the cleaners.

Carrying 119 pounds I think Stagehand has a good chance to win the $25,000 race, which will be run over a distance of one mile and three sixteenths. Stagehand was a bit slow in making his move in the Thornton Memorial Handicap last Saturday which was a one mile and one furlong affair. With the distance of that race a few yards longer, Jackie Westrope would have won with Stagehand. Westrope will profit by the longer distance of the Narragansett Special.

Menow in With 113 Pounds

MENOW, WHO won the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, will carry only 113 pounds on Saturday against the 128-pound package that will be placed aboard Marica. Fighting Fox also will carry 113 pounds, while Cravat is in with 106 pounds. Bull Lea, winner of the Thornton Memorial, also gets a break in the fact he will only have to carry 113 pounds. Bull Lea tired badly in the latter stages of the Thornton Memorial, but should be in better condition on Saturday.

Bill Shelley has given Aneroid 126 pounds, Thanksgiving 118 pounds, Tatterdemalion and Finance each 115 pounds and The Chief 114 pounds.

If Seabiscuit had come here for the race, he would have had a weight impost of 131 pounds.

Shelley rated Marica and Seabiscuit on equal terms, but was obliged to take three pounds off Marica on account of the sex allowance.

It looks as if there will be between a dozen and 16 starters in the big race. Anything can happen in such a contest. The so-called better horses can be bumped at the start, or get jammed on a turn and put out of the contention. It is such uncertainties that make horse racing so thrilling and popular.

With thousands of people week-ending at the Rhode Island beach resorts, it is expected that new attendance and mutuel records for the meet- it be established on Saturday and on Labor Day. There has been a steady pickup in the amount of money wagered at the Pawtucket, R. I. track and Judge James E. Dooley believes that this condition will continue until the meeting closes a week from Saturday.

I never could understand where the boys and girls keep digging up the fresh spinach for the mutuel machines, but whatever their system is they have been very successful at it. If they only could pick winners as well as they can get new money, they wouldn't have anything about which to register a kick.

Random Shots at Target

DARTMOUTH WILL give newspaper reporters and cameramen a pre-view of its football squad at Hanover, N. H. on next Tuesday afternoon . . . The regular practice sessions will begin on Wednesday . . . Boston University also kicks off on Tuesday afternoon, and Coach Pat Hanley is looking forward to a successful season.

Frank Souchak, who will play for the College All-Stars against the Shamrocks at Fenway Park on September 14, was an all-America end at Pittsburgh in 1937 . . . Souchak will come to Boston after he plays for the College All-Stars against the Giants in New York on September 7 . . . Souchak is 23 years old, six feet tall and weighs 205 pounds . . . Souchak is also a golfer, and has six victories to his credit over John "Mysterious" Montague.

Great Barrington looks for a successful running horse meeting from September 12 through September 17 . . . John Gilbody will be general manager, while John Stevens will be starter . . . Stevens acted in a similar capacity at the Marshfield Fair, and proved he could get the thoroughbreds away to as good starts from an old fashioned web barrier as most starters can when using a Bahr gate.

Horses are already shipping to Rockingham Park with the meeting at the Salem, N. H. track scheduled to open on September 12 . . . Racing Secretary John Turner looks forward to having plenty of top horses for the Rockingham meeting.

Eagles Set at Center For Coming Campaign

Gil Doble has no worries as far as the center of his line at Boston College goes. Chester Gladchuk, Leo Logue and Ralph Worth are all available for the pivot job.

It's rather a peculiar setup. Each is a member of a different class. Worth is a senior, Logue is a junior and Gladchuk, new to varsity competition, is a sophomore.

In 1936, the first named came up to the varsity and before the season was more than a game along had landed the starting pivot assignment. From that time on Ralph Worth was classed with the best in the East.

However, an injury started a streak of tough Worth luck and the center berth was taken over by Logue, who did a great job all season.

Now comes Gladchuk to steal the post from the two boys who for two successive years have been standouts.

Larger and heavier than either of his competitors, the Bridgeport boy will get the preference until one of the others can conclusively prove superior. He and Worth are considered better pass defenders, but when it comes to decisive tackling, Logue takes a back seat to none.

BRITISH PLAN TO FIGHT ON U. S. MONEY

By ROBERT G. NIXON

(Copyright 1938)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (INS)—Great Britain has ready for instant use in event of a war with Germany a secret plan for financing in the United States a major part of the conflict, this correspondent is able to disclose today.

Upwards of $2,500,000,000 in American credits would be used under the plan to purchase food supplies, munitions, guns and planes.

The plan, according to expert opinion given International News Service by legal authorities, would not be blocked by the Johnson Act, which prohibits defaulting World War debtors from floating further loans in this country.

It has been evolved as an emergency measure with the knowledge that Britain could not agai' borrow the World War billions unless she first settles those
